Plea for help to save town show

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

MORE volunteers are urgently needed to ensure the Haverhill Show goes ahead.

The future of the popular annual event, supported by the Weekly News, hangs in the balance, unless more people are willing to join the committee or offer their services in other ways.

Mick Driver, who chairs the Haverhill Show Society, has launched an appeal for help after membership dropped from more than a dozen people to just six.

He said: "The show might not go ahead if we don't get enough people."

"It's the biggest entertainment event in Haverhill and it would be a shame if we can't run it this year."

The show has been going for around 50 years and is set to be held on July 3 and 4 on the town's Recreation Ground.

It raises money for the LampH charity which supports children and adults with social and learning disabilities and last year made a profit of around £2,000.

Mr Driver said: "People can help in a small way if they just want to turn up on the day for a few hours. But we would like to hear from them now."

"People won't be thrown in at the deep end. They will be given training to help them carry out the necessary jobs."

Brave Lorna loses locks to help unit

FLORIST Lorna Ellington had her head shaved yesterday to raise money for the cancer unit where she is due to begin treatment this week.

Mrs Ellington, 45, arranged to lose her locks at Sonia's salon in Queen Street, Haverhill, to "give something back" to West Suffolk Hospital in Bury St Edmunds, where she has already undergone an operation.

"It had to be done quickly before my hair falls out after I start chemotherapy on Friday," said Mrs Ellington, a mother of six children.

She had to close her Heaven Scent Florists in Queen Street at the end of January after being diagnosed with cancer.

She has now set up a special account at Haverhill's Lloyds TSB branch to accept donations. The account is titled Lorna Ellington Fund Raising.

Bars pull in students

STUDENTS in the region are big drinkers, spending an average of five hours in the pub each week.

In contrast, they spend just over three hours a week taking part in sporting activities, according to Sport England.

The public body has announced a £10 million injection of National Lottery funding into universities to encourage more students to take exercise and live a healthier life style.

The move comes following new Sport England research showing that students in the East of England are spending almost twice as much time in the bar as they are on the pitch.

The initiative, called Active Universities, aims to encourage more students to take up a sport.

Other findings from the poll of students in the East shows nearly one in five think sport could help them meet a new boyfriend or girlfriend, and more than a third of those questioned said they had put on weight at university.

Cancer charity pockets snooker cash

GENEROUS snooker players helped raise more than £1,400 in memory of a girl who died from a rare form of cancer.

The cash was raised by a charity tournament at Haverhill Snooker Club last year in memory of 14-year-old Maggie Vale.

It was presented to children's cancer charity CLIC Sargent in advance of this year's tournament which is being staged at the club on Sunday, March 28, in aid of the Teenage Cancer Trust.

Maggie's dad John, from Little Bradley, said: "We didn't know how the tournament was going to go last year.

"We didn't go into it with great expectations and we didn't even know if anyone was going to turn up, but it was a great success."

He added: "It's things like this that help you cope with the grieving process."

Maggie died in October, 2008, from a form of stomach cancer normally only found in adults.

Mr Vale, 50, a self-employed painter and decorator, ran in last year's London Marathon with some friends and raised £10,000 for CLIC Sargent.

Anyone wanting to take part in this year's tournament should register at Haverhill Snooker and Bowl at least a week before the event by calling the club on (01440) 707774 or visiting the website www.haverhillbowl.com

Yobs strike

A GANG of hooligans damaged fencing around a £1.4 million football project. The incident at the Haverhill Football Project in Chalkstone Way is the latest damage to be caused on the site.

A group of around 10 youths aged around 17 were seen damaging the fencing around the site at about 9.40pm on Tuesday.

Most were wearing dark tops but one had a red top and another had a white top.

Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Cheryl Claydon at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Lead stripped

LEAD has been stolen from the roof of a jeweller's shop. Thieves struck at the shop in High Street, Haverhill, between 5.30pm on Monday and 6.30am on Tuesday.

Anyone with information about the crime should call Suffolk police's Crime Investigation Bureau (CIB) on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Help needed

VICTIM Support is looking for more volunteers in the Haverhill area to work with people who have suffered at the hands of criminals.

Training is provided and expenses are paid. To find out more, call the Haverhill Centre for Voluntary Agencies on (01440) 708444.

Resident hits out over asbestos fear

COUNCIL chiefs have been blasted for demolishing a building containing asbestos next to a rubbish collection centre in Haverhill – while it was open to the public.

Mick Driver spotted workmen knocking down a building next to the household waste recycling centre (HWRC) in Coupals Close while wearing face masks to protect them from the potentially deadly fibres.

But Mr Driver, of Elmhurst Close, Haverhill, said he was "totally shocked at the lack of care given to the general public using the site".

He said: "I strongly felt that the site should have been closed to the general public while this operation was being carried out.

BY STEPHEN EXLEY

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"I wonder how many people breathed in asbestos dust that day. I feel this matter should be investigated as this must be a serious breach of health and safety rules."

Mr Driver added: "Most of us know the risks of handling asbestos. There are messages regularly broadcast on television warning that asbestos dust can be fatal, and of the number of people dying each year from horrible diseases because of it."

A spokeswoman for Suffolk County Council said: "The work was carried out on land adjacent to the HWRC not on the site itself and was carried out by an approved contractor for the removal of asbestos.

"Knowing that the work was planned we commissioned an independent health and safety check and set up air monitoring while the work was being carried out to ensure that there was no risk to staff or visitors of the site."

Asbestos became increasingly popular in construction in the late 19th century because of its sound absorption and resistance to heat, electrical and chemical damage.

But the inhalation of fibres from the material has been linked to potential fatal diseases including lung cancer, mesothelioma and asbestosis.

It has been banned across the European Union since 2005.

It is estimated that more than 3,500 people in Great Britain die each year from mesothelioma and lung cancer as a result of past exposure to asbestos.

Musicians ready to take a bow at string concert

A STRING quartet is hard at work in preparation for a concert featuring special guests tomorrow night.

The Samuel Ward Upper School String Quartet will be accompanied by the West Suffolk Youth Wind Band at what promises to be an entertaining evening of music in contrasting styles.

A spokesman for the Suffolk County Music Service said: "All the members of the string quartet are also members of the West Suffolk Youth Orchestra. On this occasion they will be performing music of a more intimate nature, to contrast with the exciting sound of the wind band."

The event is part of a wide range of musical opportunities available to young Suffolk musicians in the county.

Any youngster who wants to get involved with music in Suffolk should email the county music service at: county.musicservice@suffolk.gov.uk or call (01473) 281866.

The concert takes place at the Samuel Ward Arts & Technology College on Chalkstone Way in Haverhill at 7.30pm.

Tickets cost £5 for adults and £3 for children and students and are available on the door or by calling (01473) 281866.

'Champion' raises £8k in six months

A SUPERMARKET'S "community champion" has raised £8,000 for good causes in just six months.

When the new Tesco store opened in Haverhill last September, local mother-of-one Claire Bowden was appointed to the role to generate funds for community groups and worthy organisations in the town.

And, with the help of generous customers, Claire has raised cash for a number of organisations, including the Army Benevolent Fund, Haverhill Lions Club, the Salvation Army, WSVAB, Muscular Dystrophy, The Poppy Appeal, Save the Children and the British Red Cross.

Claire said: "It's great to work with the community to help give these organisations and their hard-working volunteers a boost. It's never easy to raise funds but at a time when many of us are tightening our belts it is even harder.

"I've been overwhelmed by the generosity of the local people and had great fun in supporting them.

"I hope that more groups and charities come forward with their ideas on how Tesco can support them to raise funds in the coming months and look forward to the new challenges."

Cllr Elaine McManus, Mayor of Haverhill, said: "What a privilege it is to have someone like Claire with all her enthusiasm working for Haverhill Tesco, who have brought huge benefits to the town, in which they have supported local groups and the community.

"I personally thank them for donating prizes for the mayor's charity dance which was a great success and helped me raise £800 for my chosen charities."

From the store, Claire has also donated more than £900 in gift cards or goods to charities and organisations around the town.

Tina Hanks, Haverhill's town centre manager, said: "It's good to see major firms such as Tesco participating in local initiatives and I thank them for donating vouchers for prize draws and also for running an Italian wine promotion to coincide with the Italian market weekend."

The store launch saw donations of nearly £10,000 from Tesco to good causes around the town, including St Nicholas Hospice, Haverhill Food Bank, Haverhill Silver Band, West Wrattling Football Club, St Felix School, Castle Hill School, the Haverhill Christmas lights appeal and Haverhill BAPS

Drugs courier has jail sentence cut

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A TAXI driver put behind bars for supplying cocaine to drug users across Cambridgeshire has had his jail sentence slashed.

Paul Massie, 49, was jailed for five years at Ipswich Crown Court last August after admitting conspiracy to supply cocaine.

Massie, of Haverhill, also supplied the class-A drug in Suffolk.

Jailed alongside him was Paul French, 33, who acted as a "storeman" for consignments of drugs, concealing them in his private safe and acting as an "occasional" courier, London's Appeal Court heard.

Mr Justice Coulson, sitting with Lord Justice Thomas and Mrs Justice Nicola Davies, said the duo were involved in a scheme to "import a large quantity of cocaine into Suffolk and Cambridgeshire".

Appeal: Paul Massie.

Neither Massie nor French, of Gannet Close, Haverhill, were at the top of the supply chain, he added, but performed key roles as courier and storemen, with Massie's job as a cab driver providing perfect camouflage.

The conspiracy ran between 2007 and 2008, and involved six kilos of cocaine, the court heard.

Other men higher up the ladder smuggled the drugs into the UK, with Massie picking up consignments in his taxi – once in Woodford, and another time at Redbridge railway station.

Massie came into the conspiracy at the halfway point – after a previous courier was arrested.

Massie's sentence was cut to four years after Mr Justice Coulson concluded that the original five-year term took insufficient account of his guilty plea.

French's appeal against his sentence was dismissed.

The Haverhill-based gang made nearly £470,500 from the illegal trade across both Cambridgeshire and Suffolk.

Another member, Ryan Eggo, 22, of Church Close, Whittlesford, was jailed after flooding the region with drugs worth £1 million.

At a confiscation hearing in January, Massie was ordered to pay £10,000 in six months or face having six months added to his sentence.

Show needs extra help

He said the show society had also suffered from falling sponsorship from local businesses because of the recession.

The drop in sponsorship meant that less cash was available for the charity.

"If there are any local companies that want to get involved we would love to hear from them," he said.

Anyone interested in sponsoring or helping with the show can contact Mr Driver, of 19 Duddery Hill, Haverhill, on (01440) 763272 or 07917 121855

Rehearsals: Ketton Players prepare for next week's performances.

CP

Ayckbourn's sporty Affair on stage

BEHIND-the-scenes drama at a school sports day is the subject of a play coming to the stage in Kedington.

The Ketton Players will perform Affairs in a Tent by Alan Ayckbourn.

This is from Intimate Exchanges, a series of eight inter-related plays by the renowned playwright.

In the comedy romp, headmaster's wife Celia launches a new catering business with school caretaker Lionel to try and break free from her dreary lifestyle.

She is forced to hunt out emergency provisions when the baked goods for the event fail to meet expectations – and things go from bad to worse when Celia's mislaid handbag creates havoc in the mothers' race.

The show will take place at Kedington Community Centre on Friday, March 26 and Saturday, March 27, starting at 7.30pm.

Tickets cost £6 for adults or £5 for concessions. They can be bought from Kedington Butchers or by phone (01440) 704293.

Schools get more nurses

ALMOST 30 new school nurses have been appointed in a bid to give pupils a clean bill of health.

Suffolk Community Healthcare (SCH) has appointed 28 extra nurses following a £705,000 cash injection from NHS Suffolk.

SCH described the funding as a "substantial investment" in its services, meaning there are now 44 members of nursing staff covering 33 mainstream schools and seven special schools across the county.

The organisation is looking to create drop-in sessions at middle and high schools where students can seek health advice. Similar events will be organised for parents of primary school pupils.

Julia Bilotta, service manager for health visiting and school nursing services, said: "This additional investment from NHS Suffolk has significantly improved the service we are able to offer young people across the county."

"The extra staff will play an important role by offering children and young people impartial, non-judgmental advice and help on a range of different issues."

"We'll also be concentrating on a number of important health promotion initiatives, such as reducing teenage pregnancies and sexually transmitted infections, enhancing emotional health and wellbeing and tackling obesity and smoking."

"The nurses will be available to discuss any issues which may be

BY STEPHEN EXLEY

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

worrying the young people. If they are unable to offer appropriate support themselves, they will be able to signpost them to other agencies who will be able to help."

The team will work with teachers to provide personal health and social education and give advice on sex and relationships.

Youngsters will also be able to access support and advice on a variety of other issues, such as healthy eating, smoking, bullying, drugs and alcohol."

Elaine Aylott, children's commissioning and development manager at NHS Suffolk, said: "The school nursing team is now able to offer advice and support to individual children and young people on a wide range of personal and public health issues which might otherwise cause serious and long-term difficulties in their lives."

Karen Webb, from the Royal College of Nursing (RCN), said: "The RCN has been calling for extra funding and support for school nurses for some time and we therefore welcome this recruitment drive as a step in the right direction."

"School nurses are an invaluable resource for all children and their families, but particularly for vulnerable children to whom school nurses can sometimes be their first and only port of call."

Success: members of Tang Soo Do Club who took part and passed Grade 1.

Martial arts instructors go to next level

A MARTIAL arts club in Haverhill had extra reason to celebrate its 10th anniversary, after two instructors enjoyed a successful grading event.

Dean Blackwell and Craig Phillips, from Haverhill Tang Soo Do Korean Martial Arts Club, were tested for their third and second-degree black belts respectively – and both passed with flying colours.

Both men had to demonstrate advanced techniques from the traditional Korean martial art and take on up to three opponents at the same time.

Dean had to perform a knife hand strike to three house bricks – with Craig having to use the same technique on two bricks.

Jason Miller, instructor and fifth Dan master, said: "We have been travelling once a week to study and train with the regional instructor master Mark Ingram in St Ives to prepare for this testing."

"You really begin to understand why tang soo do is not a sport but a traditional martial art, where you are tested physically, mentally and emotionally."

"At all times you have to respect yourself and everyone around you not just when training but all the time, it's a way of life or philosophy."

"Together we have trained tirelessly, helping each other through everything, never stopping because the other keeps going a constant circle of improvement."

A club spokesman said: "The whole club is so grateful for the massive support that came to watch the grading, a fantastic way to launch the 10th year anniversary."

The club meets on Tuesdays in Leiston Road from 7pm until 9pm, and at Samuel Ward Upper School on Thursdays at the same time.

Cash for projects in the community

FAMILIES, immigrants and young people in Haverhill are to benefit from three new community projects.

Haverhill Volunteer Centre (HVC) has received funding to start up new schemes to benefit residents.

Elaine Hewes, volunteer co-ordinator, said: "We have been successful in bids for funding to work on new projects in the community."

"The funding will enable us to offer specific training and support to volunteers working on the projects."

"We are looking forward to a busy year and hope to encourage many new volunteers and organisations to join us."

BY STEPHEN EXLEY

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Cash from Activities Unlimited will be used to provide support for families who have children with additional needs.

A spokeswoman for the centre said: "This project aims to match up volunteers with families needing support."

"It might be a visit once a week, or a helping hand when taking the children out on trips or attending local activities."

The funding will pay for training and support for volunteers who take part in the project.

HVC has also been given cash by the West Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership to create a befriending service. Volunteers will be given training to help them develop one-to-one relationships with vulnerable members of society.

The spokeswoman said: "As part of this, we have arranged training for volunteers on the role of the befriender."

"This training aims to provide volunteers with sufficient experience and information to enable them to feel confident in carrying out the role as a befriender."

This project will include arranging monthly meetings for women in the town from different ethnic minorities, and inviting guest speakers to give talks.

Another grant from Youth & Connexions will be used to support youths aged 11 and above to carry out voluntary work in the community.

The youngsters will be encouraged to take part in local projects, design publicity materials and produce a youth newsletter.

They will also make a short film about the scheme to promote the benefits of volunteering to young people.

To find out more about any of these schemes, email info@hvc.org.uk call (01440) 708444 or visit www.hvc.org.uk

Unprofitable weekend bus service to be axed

A WEEKEND bus service between Haverhill and Sudbury is being axed from next week.

Beestons Ltd, which operates as Constables, will only continue to run the 236 service from Haverhill to Sudbury, via Clare, on weekdays after March 27.

A spokesman for the company said not enough people were using the service and the section of the route between Haverhill and Clare was currently running at a loss.

Suffolk County Council had been asked to sponsor the route as it was no longer viable as a commercial service.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The spokesman said: "It has not been done with any malice, it is purely economics.

"We have reviewed it over the past six to eight months and it is not viable to go on running it with the level of passengers using it.

"We gave people ample notice since the beginning of February and we have only received three telephone enquiries about it and one letter. If Suffolk County Council did agree to take it on then of course we would consider it.

"We know that councils are all having to make cuts and we run this purely as a commercial service with no help from anybody. As a company we are here to make a profit."

A spokesman for Suffolk County Council said: "Beestons 236 is a commercial service. We are aware of the issues with this service and we are looking at what, if anything, the county council can do to assist."

Two bailed over order charge

TWO 15-year-olds have been arrested on suspicion of a public order offence.

The pair were arrested in Blaxhall Court, Haverhill, last Wednesday and have been released on bail to return to Bury St Edmunds police station on March 22.

Five days earlier, a 14-year-old was arrested in the same area after a disturbance involving a large number of youths.

The area's police safer neighbourhood team has been taking action to tackle problems in the area.

BMW hit by car at supermarket

A SPORTS car was damaged while it was parked outside a supermarket.

The blue BMW Z4 was parked at Sainsbury's in Haycocks Road, Haverhill, at around 10.15am on Sunday when it was damaged by another vehicle, which left the scene.

Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Andrew Green at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Trim and nuts taken by thief

THE wheel trim and wheel nuts were removed from a car parked outside a garage.

The incident happened at Hamlet Green, Haverhill, between 5pm on Monday and 7am the following day when the trim and nuts were taken from one wheel of a Ford Mondeo.

Anyone with information should call Pc Victoria Anthistle at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Honours for brave officers

BY STEPHEN EXLEY

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HEROIC police officers who disarmed a criminal brandishing a rifle and saved a woman from falling 30ft to her death have been recognised for their bravery.

Pc Carl Brandwood and PCSO Christopher Strahm, both based in Haverhill, received Chief Constable Commendations from Suffolk police during a ceremony at the force's headquarters yesterday.

The prestigious commendations are awarded by the force "in recognition of particularly professional or outstanding work".

Pc Brandwood received his commendation after disarming an armed man after he was called out to deal with a domestic incident.

A force spokeswoman said: "The male opened his door to Pc Brandwood holding a long barrelled rifle, and pointed it at the officer who stood just three metres away.

"Pc Brandwood was able to grab the rifle from the male and made the situation safe enough for other officers to arrest the male."

PCSO Strahm was also presented with a commendation for his efforts after helping to save the life of a 19-year-old woman.

Honours: for PC Carl Brandwood and PCSO Chris Strahm.

CP

He and two colleagues – who are also to receive commendations for going beyond the call of duty – were called out to a footbridge where the woman was in some difficulty.

The spokeswoman said: "The trio held the weight of the woman after she had stepped off a footbridge located 30ft above a road. They had to hold the woman for around half an hour, while remaining calm, compassionate and reassuring, until she was eventually pulled to safety."

A total of six commendations were made at the ceremony, and long service awards were also handed to police officers, police staff and specials who have displayed many years of loyal service to Suffolk police.

Lord Tollemache, the Lord-Lieutenant of Suffolk, was at the ceremony to present the medals for long service, with the majority being for 22 years service.

Simon Ash, Chief Constable of the Suffolk force, was on hand to present the Chief Constable Commendations to the recipients.

During the ceremony at Suffolk police headquarters at Martlesham Heath in Ipswich, a total of 39 medals were awarded for long service, with 30 going to police officers, two to police staff and seven to specials.

Project to preserve stories and traditions wins £45,000 grant

A CHARITY which aims to inspire people through the creative arts has been awarded more than £45,000 towards a heritage project.

Inspire, which hosts activities for people with health conditions and disabilities, has won a grant of £45,500 for Sharing Stories, a local heritage project to be based at the Lethbury Centre in Weston Colville.

Thanks to the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF), the project gets under way tonight with a talk entitled Weston Colville and its School, hosted by local residents Roger Whitehead and Tim Cockerill.

Robyn Llewellyn, head of HLF East of England, said: "This project will guarantee that local memories, stories and traditions won't be lost for future generations.

"It represents an exciting opportunity for local residents to find out more about the heritage of their village."

Sharing Stories will run until next year, and aims to promote an awareness of the history of the community with a programme of free events, talks and creative workshops for all ages.

The lecture takes place at 7.30pm at the centre, where there will also be a community meeting for residents on March 28 at 3pm.

Dough day: Osprey and Albatross classes from Clements Primary School with staff from the town's branch of Domino's.

Pupils get a pizza the action!

PUPILS from Haverhill's Clements Primary School tried their hand at pizza-making when they visited the town's branch of Domino's.

Youngsters from the school's Osprey and Albatross classes visited the takeaway outlet with Lesley Farrow, the headteacher, as part of their food and farming lessons.

The 6 to 9-year-olds were able to try stretching and slapping the dough to make a pizza base.

Mrs Farrow said: "Domino's staff were informative and well-organised and the children thoroughly enjoyed this memorable learning experience – especially when their hot pizzas were delivered to school at the end of the day ready to take home."

Fire union hits out at jobs threat

FIREFIGHTERS' union chiefs have vowed to oppose possible job cuts as part of a review of the service in Suffolk.

They also hit out at above-inflation rises for the county's chief fire officer and senior management.

A spokeswoman for the county fire service has denied that job cuts are planned.

But Steve Collins, county branch secretary of the Fire Brigades Union, claimed that senior management had said job losses through "natural wastage" had not been ruled out.

A series of public consultation drop-in sessions are planned across the county as part of the review.

One is due to be staged at Newmarket fire station on Thursday, March 25, between 5.30pm and 8pm.

Mr Collins said: "As far as the draft action plan that's out for consultation goes, it is not clear what it means for full-time posts. But we have spoken to senior management and they are not ruling out the possibility of a reduction in staffing."

"What we're asking for is some openness and honesty – not only for us as employees, but also for the public as they're the ones that pay for the service."

He said the union was willing to work with the management to help identify efficiency savings. But he said they would "strongly oppose" job cuts.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

He said the salary rises of more than 4 per cent for the county's chief fire officer, Andy Fry, were a "slap in the face" for firefighters whose pay increases have been held down to around 1.25 per cent.

But a county fire services spokeswoman said the increases were for two years and had been applied according to a national formula to maintain differentials between senior posts.

Commenting on the review, Mr Fry said: "We want to make sure that the service we offer is doing all it can to prevent fires, protect the public and respond to emergency situations."

"In this consultation we want to explore how we could make changes to the full-time shift systems we operate, in order to release sufficient resources to improve the availability of fire engines crewed by part-time firefighters across the county, and also to improve the training for all of our firefighters, both part-time and full-time."

Other drop-in sessions are planned at Bury St Edmunds in the ARC shopping centre and the town's fire station.

Details on the current plan can be found at www.suffolk.gov.uk/fireactionplan

MEP's fear over EU tax proposals

EAST of England MEP Vicky Ford has voiced her concerns regarding new taxes being implemented at a European level.

She spoke out following the Parliamentary debates that took place in Strasbourg this week.

Mrs Ford said: "There is a drive by some MEPs to use the financial crisis as an excuse to pass significantly more power from the UK and other countries to the EU.

"I have no problem with asking banks to pay back the taxpayers for their bailouts – and would support Obama's proposed levy on banks as a globally co-ordinated move.

"But the idea that the EU could start to extract its own taxes, potentially on every UK citizen's pension fund saving or investment, is not acceptable."

The MEP has also spoken out about the changes in planning laws in Spain, which have seen people forced to bulldoze their own homes.

She said: "They got a clear message that UK MEPs are not prepared to let this issue fester out of the spotlight."

Dogs and Rockers line up for Plough's beer festival

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A PUB will host three live bands at its fourth bi-annual beer festival over the Easter weekend.

Rock 'n' rollers Jurassic Rock will headline the Hundon Plough Beer Festival on Friday, April 2.

The group will be followed by a rare appearance by skiffle combo Ugly Dog on the Saturday night and local favourites Liquid Cosh on the Sunday evening.

All performances at the pub are free of charge and will start at 8.30pm.

The festival, which starts on Thursday, April 1, will be themed round the idea of "colours" and will feature real ales from breweries such as Mauldon's of Sudbury, Moonshine of Cambridge and Old Cannon of Bury St Edmunds, as well as national brewers such as Young's, Black Sheep and Oxfordshire Ales.

Festival organiser Kate Wood said: "We are delighted to still be able to hold this bi-annual event here for local people at the Plough.

"Cask ale is one of the few products in the licensed trade that supermarkets are unable to copy us on.

"Despite the number of pubs closing on a daily basis in the UK, we have found that there is still a definite place in people's hearts for the good old traditional pub, and in particular, real ale

"Also, we're delighted to give local people the opportunity to see truly talented bands free of charge."

The festival continues through Easter weekend, with the pub being open all day throughout, ending on Easter Monday, April 5, at 11pm.

Volunteers needed to be friends

A BEFRIENDING scheme will hold an open day in Haverhill next week.

The Suffolk Befriending Scheme (SBS), which helps to create and support friendships between adults with learning disabilities and other members of the community, will host the event at Haverhill Leisure Centre on Thursday, March 25 between 10am and 1pm.

Established in 1989, the group recruits, trains and supports volunteers to become 'special friends', with volunteers coming from all walks of life.

In return for their time, SBS offer volunteers full training, travel and out-of-pocket expenses, work experience, and the chance to change the life of someone with a learning disability.

It is also looking for volunteers to run its new YP@APT sessions on a Friday morning at the Chalkstone Community Centre, along with Befrienders Club 2, which starts on April 6 at the same venue.

For more details, call (01787) 371333 or the Haverhill Volunteer Centre on (01440) 708444.

Council awaits brief on future of mills site

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

COUNCILLORS will get a report next month on ideas for the future use of one of Haverhill's landmark buildings.

A public consultation exercise was carried out until the beginning of February to get views about how the Chantry Mills could be developed.

Now Cambridge-based planning consultants Bidwells are preparing a development brief for councillors which is due to be considered next month.

Helen Thompson, partner at Bidwells, said: "The purpose of the development brief is to set out the principles which apply to St Edmundsbury Borough Council's Awaiting fate: Bidwells are set to tell the borough council how the Chantry Mills can be redeveloped.

consideration and acceptance of the reuse and redevelopment of the site."

The comments received as a result of the consultation were reported to the Haverhill area working party last week while St Edmundsbury's cabinet will get the report on April 17, when a decision will be taken on the adoption of the development brief.

The grade II-listed buildings, which became redundant after the owners, clothing manufacturers Gurteens, stopped production there in 1996, could be used for offices, flats, leisure facilities and shops.

Man gets caution for failing to leave town

POLICE cautioned a man who failed to leave Haverhill town centre as ordered after being given an official notice.

The 18-year-old was given a Section 27 notice under the Violent Crime Reduction Act 2006 requiring him to leave the town centre last Friday.

But he did not leave and was given an official caution.

Suffolk police have been using the notices for a year to order anyone they feel may cause alcohol-related violence to leave a specified area for up to 48 hours.

If they fail to comply, they can be arrested.

Actress dedicated her performances to mum

I CAN still remember being told Mum wasn't going to make it," says Leanne Jones. "I would have been 14. I was in the car with my dad – he must have been picking me up from singing or drama – and he told me. He got quite choked up ...

"I'm 24 now, almost 25, and I still miss her all the time. The grief creeps up on me sometimes, all of a sudden, and I have a really big crying session. "Even now I keep a bottle of Mum's perfume, Dune, to remind me of her. She was ill for so long that, for quite a lot of years, I couldn't remember how she was before the cancer. "But, as time goes by, I remember more and more. And what I remember is a gorgeous person, warm and caring – a really lovely mum."

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Olivier Award-winning actress Leanne shot to fame in the hit West End show Hairspray. Bright, bubbly and curvaceous – with a sensational singing voice – she was perfect for the part of Tracy Turnblad, a Baltimore girl with a big heart (and even bigger hair), determined to dance her way to stardom ...

"Hairspray was amazing; it changed my life," says Leanne, who comes from St Ives. "I got quite emotional thinking how great it would have been for Mum to be there, how proud she would have been. But we put her name in the programme: my performance was dedicated to her. It gave me some comfort, thinking that every single night 1,200 people would read her name and know I was doing it for her."

Leanne's mum, Valerie Jones, died almost a decade ago. She was 42 and had been battling breast cancer for seven years. Mother's Day is, says Leanne, always emotional for her. Last Sunday, instead of visiting her mum's grave in St Ives, she was performing in a London charity show BIGGINS' Night Out – organised by the inimitable Christopher Biggins to raise cash for a Surrey hospice.

Leanne is also backing the Hallmark Cards for a Cure campaign: the company has donated an incredible £1 million to breast cancer charities to date.

"I always try to make myself available for cancer charities," explains Leanne. "It's my way of doing my bit for my mum."

"I have lovely memories of her from when I was really little," she continues. "Memories of just being at home with her, playing in the garden, baking in the kitchen ...

"It's a little thing, but one of my happiest memories is of watching Sesame Street and Neighbours with her. They were on every afternoon, one after the other. My mum used to have a nap on the sofa and I'd lie on her and watch them both – it was lovely."

Leanne's family moved to Cambridgeshire, from Stoke, when she was eight. And it was soon after they settled in St Ives that Valerie was diagnosed. "I was so young, it was all a bit of a blur," admits Leanne.

"But I do remember her telling me. She already knew then that she'd have to have her right breast removed: she even had a prosthetic breast in a box to show me. She said everything would be ok, that she would be ok. But as soon as I heard the word 'cancer' I started crying: back in Stoke my friend's mum had died of cancer – and I was scared the same thing was going to happen to her."

After a mastectomy, Valerie was prescribed both chemo and radiotherapy. "The radiotherapy made her skin really sore," remembers Leanne. "And the chemo made her really, really sick."

"I think she found losing her hair quite traumatic but she didn't wear a wig, she wore turbans. I can still remember going shopping with her to buy scarves in all kinds of lovely colours and fabrics. She was so fashionable! And she was determined, I guess, not to let cancer ruin her style."

"I've got a very clear memory of her coming to pick me up from school in a dog-check suit, her heels clicking. At the time I was embarrassed; I thought she was a real show off. But now I can see it in myself: I love clothes too and like to look nice."

Among other things, Valerie worked for Avon and Cambridgeshire Careers Guidance. "She was always so supportive of me and my dream of becoming an actress," adds Leanne. "She used to take videos of me singing into work all the time to show her colleagues; I'm sure they all got sick of it! But she was really proud."

Although the treatment was gruelling, Valerie made a good recovery and, for some time, it looked as if she'd beaten the cancer into remission. Then, out of the blue, a lump appeared in her neck: the cancer was back, this time in her lymph system. More radiotherapy followed.

"She and my dad did their best to protect me and Simon, my little brother," remembers Leanne. "I'd hear them being upset together in the next room, walk in and they'd change the subject straight away and say 'Right. Shall we have a cup of tea?' ...

"It must have been so frustrating: every time she got well and started to get on with her life she got knocked back down again."

Once again, Valerie had seemed to recover. But then, while supermarket shopping in Huntingdon, she had a fall. "We all thought she'd hurt her back," recounts Leanne. "She saw a chiropractor, had physio, took all kinds of tablets but it never got better. She was in bed for a couple of weeks. And then we found out it was actually the cancer – this time in her bones."

Doctors said there was nothing more they could do. "We were supposed to be going to Australia to see some of Mum's family: she was one of eight children and five of them had moved out there," continues Leanne.

"One of her other sisters, who lives here, gave her reiki one day and Mum said she'd had a spiritual vision. At the time I thought she must be on too much medication!

"Anyway, she came down to dinner and, for someone who wasn't necessarily very religious or spiritual, said that an Indian chief had visited her, told her he was her spirit guide and said she should go to Australia to see her sisters, because it would be for the last time.

"Whatever she said, whatever made her happy, we went along with because we loved her so much. So we went to Australia and it was amazing."

By then, Valerie could barely walk. But, determined to make the most of the time she had left, Leanne says her mum enjoyed the holiday and spent a lot of time sitting in the sun, creating memory books for her children.

"When we got back she was told she had six months, but I don't think she lived that long," adds Leanne. "When she died we were all there."

"I was 15, my brother was 11. I didn't properly cry for a long time: I saw my dad and my brother going to pieces, so I tried to stay strong."

"I was doing my GCSEs, so I threw myself into that. And I threw myself into my singing and drama too."

"It really hit me when I was 18 and I got a place at drama school, which was something Mum had always wanted me to do."

Leanne, who studied at St Ivo and Impington Village College before winning her place at Mountview Academy of Theatre Arts in London, auditioned for Hairspray while she was still at college.

Being a curvy girl, she says she felt the part was perfect for her: when she finally bagged the role (after auditioning, on and off, for two years) the critics agreed – she won a whole raft of awards, including an Olivier for Best Actress in a Musical and a Critics Circle gong for Most Promising Newcomer.

Since leaving Hairspray, starring alongside West End legend Michael Ball, Leanne has staged her own one-woman show, Have You Met Miss Jones?, which was a sell-out. The next step is, she says, to record an album and then, ideally, break into TV. And she will continue to work on behalf of cancer charities too: she's an ambassador for the national Breast Cancer Campaign.

"I went to the Pink Tie Ball and heard a woman, a cancer survivor, telling her story," adds Leanne. "It was so similar to my mum's story – but she was still here. It made me realise how much things have moved on, how treatments have advanced: it's proof that supporting cancer research makes a real difference."

As part of the Cards for a Cure fundraiser, Leanne has entered Hallmark's Picture of Motherhood competition, which requires entrants to submit an image which, for them, epitomises being a mum.

"I chose a picture of my mum with Simon," explains Leanne. "It was summer, we were playing in the garden and she was well. She looks beautiful and happy, which is how I like to think of her."

Tomatoes: A great way to get your garden going

ASK any budding gardener which crops they would try to grow first and you'll find tomatoes among the top answers.

They not only taste infinitely better than shop-bought ones but are so simple to manage, that even if your outside space amounts to just a balcony or a tiny terrace you can still reap the rewards of growing your own.

Still, many beginners can end up disappointed as their tomatoes either suffer blossom-end rot or are decimated by blight, where the stem and the fruits end up with brown blotches and become inedible, particularly in wet, windy summers.

Kevin Smith, commissioning editor of Gardeners' World magazine, says: "Few crops are more rewarding than tomatoes, and they're easy to grow in any space, even a tiny urban balcony."

"Don't be put off by the recent cold weather, even if it persists for a few more weeks, as you can delay sowing tomato seeds until April, or even buy pot-grown plants as late as May. Producing a delicious tomato crop is easy."

He offers the following tips to help you produce healthy, delicious tomatoes:

■ Water the soil or compost daily to ensure it never dries out. Pay special attention to plants grown in containers, as irregular watering causes nutritional imbalance, leading to low calcium take-up, which causes blossom end rot.

■ Keep your plants well fed. For tomatoes grown in pots and bags, watering by itself won't be enough to ensure healthy growth. Feed tomatoes weekly with a high-potash fertiliser, increasing the frequency as the plants grow larger or if leaves show signs of discolouring.

■ Train tomatoes to canes or supports. Different types will require different training. For example bush tomatoes will need little, if any, training. However, most other tomatoes are trained as single stems, or cordons, and the main shoot needs to be tied upright to a cane or support.

■ Pinch out tips. Outdoor cordon tomatoes will usually form three or four trusses of fruits during the season. Pinch off the tip of the main shoot a leaf or two above the fourth flower truss. You can leave greenhouse plants to grow on.

■ Combat blight disease. Warm, humid weather provides the perfect conditions for blight disease which attacks tomatoes and potatoes. This fungus disease spreads rapidly via airborne spores when conditions are right. Keep an eye on the weather and, if these conditions occur, use a preventive fungicide spray straight away to stop the blight spores infecting your plants.

Looking good: And tomatoes are nice and easy to grow.

Ace 'scrappage' kitchen deals

TONY Mumford works at Premier Interiors in Homefield Road, Haverhill, and is offering a new and exciting scheme aimed at homeowners thinking of updating their old kitchen.

"What we're starting to do now is what everyone's doing for cars and windows – which is to offer a 'scrappage' allowance. But rather than scrapping them we are trying to recycle the units."

With this new scheme, anyone planning to replace their current kitchen can receive up to £1,000 from Premier Kitchens, who will buy the old units from the customer.

ADVERTISING FEATURE

"We've struck-up a deal with a few property maintenance companies who buy the old washing machines, fridges, cookers etc from me when I do a new kitchen for someone."

"We want to get through to people that they can get a bit of money from their old units. I thought it would be a good incentive for people, rather than just skipping their old kitchens, to know that at least it's going to a good use and they can get something for it."

Tony believes he is the first in the area, if not the country, to offer this scheme on kitchens. As he explains, a lot of people will have only had their kitchen for a few years, so while they would like a new suite to suit changing tastes or needs, their old one is still perfectly usable, so it makes sense to re-use it.

"It's quite new, nobody's offering it in the area or even nationally."

Tony also offers finance loans at Premier Interiors. "If someone's £500 or so short, they can get a finance loan. That way they can get a quality kitchen rather than having to opt for something cheaper which they might not necessarily want."

Many customers are already taking advantage of the scrappage scheme and finance loans scheme. If you too are planning a new kitchen and want to talk to Tony, contact (01440) 708243.

Number plate crackdown

TEN people were arrested and 34 vehicles seized in Cambridgeshire's biggest operation using an automatic number plate recognition system. Police and partnership agencies used the cameras to clock more than 34,000 vehicles and found that three per cent of them registered hits for motoring offences or involvement with crime.

More than 100 officers took part in the crackdown at four sites in the county. Those arrested included two people for going equipped for theft, two drink-drivers, a wanted person and one suspected of drug offences.

Insp Nick Church said: "Automatic number plate recognition (ANPR) technology is an excellent tool in denying criminals the use of the roads. In just eight hours we were able to check more than 34,000 vehicles. 'The links between untaxed vehicles, road offences and crimes are well documented, which is why operations such as these are so important.'"

The operation, part of a national initiative, took place on Friday. It involved police from neighbouring forces and representatives from the Vehicle and Operator Services Agency, DVLA, UK Border Agency, Trading Standards, Revenue and Customs, Environment Agency, court bailiffs and stolen equipment examiners. Thirty-four vehicles were seized for having no insurance and other offences as having no tax or being in a dangerous condition and 76 fixed penalty notices issued.

School call for hedge helpers

GREEN-fingered children and their families are invited to go along to a gardening morning at Kedington Primary School on Saturday. Volunteers will be planting more hedge saplings in the wildlife area, moving the raised beds and refitting the greenhouse. Anyone who wants to help out is welcome to attend.

How Duxford's finest took the war to Hitler

Images such as these, which depict men and women who served at RAF Duxford during the Battle of Britain, offer a rare insight into life at a fighter station during the Second World War.

The exhibition, entitled Duxford in the Battle of Britain, also serves as a poignant reminder of the sacrifices made during the summer of 1940.

The opening of the collection marks the start of the Imperial War Museum (IWM) Duxford's programme of events commemorating the 70th anniversary of the Battle of Britain, and brings visitors face-to-face with some of the heroic characters who flew from Duxford to win the battle in the skies.

Carl Warner, research and information manager at the museum, said: "The interesting thing about the photos is that we do know quite a lot about the people in them and their eventual fate as it were – some involved quite tragic circumstances."

He added: "It's a mixture of photographs showing life on an RAF station but with the added poignancy of the fact that not all the people in the photos survived, and some were buried locally."

Duxford in the Battle of Britain depicts the prominent role played by RAF Duxford in the aerial combat that changed the course of the Second World War.

Many of the "ace" pilots based at RAF Duxford obtained heroic status. In addition to the celebrated Douglas Bader, pilots such as

Men of war: above, members of Nos 19 and 616 Squadrons with Flash the Alsatian and Rangy the spaniel. Below left, a Spitfire from No 19 Squadron.

Brian Lane, "Grumpy" Unwin, "Farmer" Lawson and Wallace Cunningham showed immense courage in the face of the enemy.

These fresh-faced young men stare out from iconic black and white images, captured forever at a key moment in wartime history – and unsure of the eventual outcome of the conflict they fought.

During the Battle of Britain, RAF Duxford was a sector station in 12 Group, responsible for directing fighters into battle.

It was also responsible for a satellite station at Fowlmere, which was used by RAF Duxford fighters.

The role of Duxford and Fowlmere was to protect the Midlands and East Anglia from attack and to assist the fighters of 11 Group, protecting London and the South East.

RAF Duxford hosted pilots of many nationalities during the Battle of Britain. In addition to Great Britain, pilots from Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Poland and the United States were stationed at Duxford.

No 19 was the only squadron to be based at Duxford or Fowlmere for the duration of the Battle of Britain.

Over the summer of 1940, many other squadrons called Duxford 'home', flying Hurricanes, Spitfires and even the Defiant turret-fighter.

In addition to fighter pilots, Duxford housed the ground crew and additional staff needed to efficiently run the station, including the Women's Auxiliary Air Force and civilian personnel undertaking vital communications work in the Operations Room.

During the first months of 1940, Duxford's squadrons patrolled North Sea convoys. They then provided aerial cover for the evacuation of Dunkirk, before the Battle of Britain began in earnest in July 1940.

By September 1940, Duxford's squadrons were regularly protecting 11 Group's airfields while its squadrons were on sortie.

This marked the start of one of Duxford's famed roles in the Battle of Britain, as the home of the "Big Wing".

Many of the photographs in this exhibition were taken by Stanley Devon, a photojournalist. An official RAF photographer, he was sent to Duxford during the Battle of Britain to record activities on a typical fighter station.

Duxford in the Battle of Britain runs from mid-April to December. There is no need to book and admission to this exhibition is included in the standard admission price to the museum.

Sign up to say no to junk mail deliveries

HAVERHILL residents are being urged to block deliveries of junk mail.

Cllr Lisa Chambers (pictured left), who represents Newmarket and Red Lodge on Suffolk County Council, where she is portfolio holder for waste, is suggesting that residents sign up to the Mail Preference Service, which can stop unsolicited post.

There are currently fears that unaddressed mail delivered by the Royal Mail could increase as the result of a new agreement.

Current agreements limit the amount delivered by post men and women to three items per household in a week. But there are fears that the number could soon double.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Cllr Chambers said: "We all need to reduce the amount of waste coming into our homes and although leaflets and flyers can be recycled, we all need to think whether we can avoid the waste in the first place."

"By signing up to the Mail Preference Service, we can do our bit towards creating Suffolk as the greenest county."

To contact the Mail Preference Service visit www.mpsonline.org.uk or call 0845 7034599.

Women needed to help forge new links

VOLUNTEERS are needed to create an international women's group in Haverhill.

Haverhill and District Volunteer Centre is behind the plan, which is based on the success of a similar scheme in Bury St Edmunds.

It aims to encourage women from the UK and overseas to get to know one another.

The group would provide a forum for new friendships to be made, as well as encouraging members to take part in work and volunteering to benefit the Haverhill community.

A volunteer centre spokeswoman said: "Activities may include social functions, learning, sharing, training opportunities, cultural exchange, volunteering and language knowledge exchange."

To find out more about the group, call the volunteer centre on (01440) 708444 or visit www.hvc.org.uk

Death of a TV star will bring on the chuckles

TOM Conti, actor, writer and British theatre favourite, is enjoying his morning coffee when I call to find out about his latest show, which comes to Cambridge next week.

Written by Eric Chappell, the pen behind Rising Damp, Wife After Death is a comedy exploring the emotions and practicalities surrounding the death of a popular television personality. It may not immediately sound like a classic recipe for chuckles but, for Conti, when he received the script, it was love at first sight.

"The playwright sent the play to me last year and I read it and was instantly taken by it, I thought it was just terrific entertainment," he enthuses. "So I set about putting a production together."

"It's about a comic, someone like Ronnie Corbett or Ronnie Barker, someone beloved of the nation, who suddenly drops dead. And the main people in his life – his agent, his wife, friends etc – all gather for the funeral and, of course, the awful thing for them is that the rent has gone. He was their source of income for decades and now he's gone! And they're in a bit of a panic."

"The character that I play was very close to him. He's lost his chum, so is feeling truly bereaved. But of course things start to be discovered, and that's the fun of it all."

"He's good fun because he's curmudgeonly. He's the kind of character that the Brits like – politically incorrect, irrational, a no-nonsense guy."

As well as starring in the show, Conti is also directing – or organising the coffee breaks, as he prefers to call it.

"It's a grand term, directing, and it's not a particularly grand process because when you choose good actors they pretty well direct themselves. They don't have to be told what to do, you just have to make sure everybody's doing the same play and in the same style, and decide where the doors and the windows are. And when to have coffee, which is the most important decision," he adds, with a laugh.

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

Before becoming the familiar face of stage and screen that we know and love today, Conti studied at the Royal Academy of Music and Drama, changing courses midway from music to drama.

Since then, he has worked on a host of productions for film, TV, theatre and radio. Undoubtedly one of his most iconic roles has been that of moustachioed latino bartender, Costas, in the romantic comedy classic, Shirley Valentine.

"It was hugely enjoyable to make," says Conti. "Pauline [Collins, who plays the stuck-in-a-rut heroine] and I were already good friends. We actually live in the same road and our daughters went to school together and remain close friends; now they're both mothers of young children. So there was a very nice bond even before we started the movie. It was a pleasure to do and Pauline is one of the greatest actresses we have. Working with people like that is a pleasure."

Among his many roles, his favourite, and the one which has remained with him longest, Conti explains, is that of Adam Morris, a Cambridge University student, who Conti has revisited several times in over 30 years.

"He first came to life in the mid-70s in a television series called The Glittering Prizes, which was about a group of people at Cambridge University. It was hugely successful in many different countries, particularly America. We'd been trying to do a sequel, to look at these characters 20 years on in their lives, and we almost got it onto television but then something happened. It's very difficult to get characters on television these days who are academically bright and speak well... So we did it on Radio 4 over a year ago with the characters 20 years older than when we'd left them, and we've just completed a third one, where my character, who started off as a student of 18/19, is now 71 by the end of it."

"All those characters have been with me for 35 years of my life, which is an extraordinary thing. I think that would be my favourite character of my career."

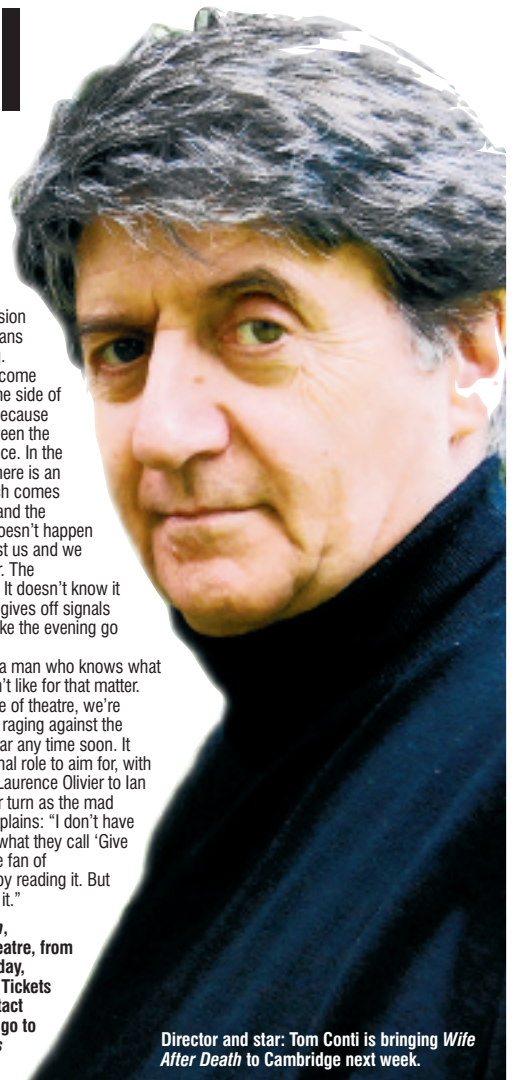

Despite his many enjoyable experiences as part of large-scale films and television series, theatre remains Conti's passion and one which he plans to continue pursuing.

"Finally I hope to come down definitely on the side of the theatre, simply because there's nothing between the actor and the audience. In the mechanical media there is an army of people which comes between the actors and the audience. But that doesn't happen in the theatre. It's just us and we do the work together. The audience works too. It doesn't know it works but it does. It gives off signals which we use to make the evening go properly."

Conti is certainly a man who knows what he likes – and doesn't like for that matter. Despite his deep love of theatre, we're unlikely to see Conti raging against the elements as King Lear any time soon. It might be the traditional role to aim for, with theatre greats from Laurence Olivier to Ian McKellen taking their turn as the mad king, but as Conti explains: "I don't have a budding desire to what they call 'Give my Lear'. I'm a huge fan of Shakespeare – I enjoy reading it. But I don't like watching it."

Easter music at King's

NOW in its sixth year, Easter at King's 2010 features the music of James MacMillan, with the composer both conducting and speaking.

The week will include the first broadcast performance of his St John Passion, on Good Friday, April 2, with King's College Choir, the Philharmonia Chorus and the BBC Concert Orchestra.

King's College Choir can also be heard in the traditional Bach Passion performance – St Matthew, on Wednesday, March 31.

The week starts with an introductory event at 6pm on Tuesday, March 30, with James MacMillan and James Naughtie in conversation about the interplay of faith and religion.

Then at 8.30pm, Aidan Oliver directs the Philharmonia Voices with music reflecting readings from the Bunyan classic The Pilgrim's Progress, including Allegri Miserere, the Pilgrim's Hymn and Tippett Deep River.

On Wednesday, March 31, at 6.30pm Bach's St Matthew Passion will be performed by the King's College Choir and the Academy of Ancient Music with Simon Wall, the Evangelist and Stephen Cleobury, the conductor.

On, Thursday, April 1, there will be chamber music for Maundy Thursday by candlelight. Music is by Howells, Britten and MacMillan with readings from Gethsamene.

Friday, April 2, at 7pm sees

MacMillan's St John Passion with Mark Stone, baritone, King's College Choir, the Philharmonia Chorus and the BBC Concert Orchestra with Stephen Cleobury conductor.

Sisters in second city gig

PDP rock band Everlife will appear live in concert in Cambridge at the end of the month.

Following their first appearance last year, the girls are back on Sunday, March 28.

Everlife originated from the small town of Indiana, Pennsylvania, and since then the three sisters have seen their careers carry them from small town beginnings to 20,000-seat arenas, sharing the stage with names such as the Jonas Brothers and Miley Cyrus.

St Andrew's Street Baptist Church, Cambridge, will host Everlife for the second time.

This all-age show will start at 7pm. Tickets are £5 and can be booked at www.cambridgeyfc.com/everlife

Supporting acts are Solace and Gabriela Hindy.

All proceeds will go towards the Nicaragua 2010 Project, providing clothes, education, sports equipment, and medical supplies to the developing country of Nicaragua.

The big film

GREEN ZONE (15, 114 mins) Action/Thriller. Matt Damon, Khalid Abdalla, Greg Kinnear, Brendan Gleeson, Jason Isaacs, Amy Ryan, Yigal Naor. Director: Paul Greengrass.

WHEN American and British forces withdraw completely from Iraq – a military strategy which seems unthinkable seven years into the campaign – the lasting legacy won't be peace and democracy.

It will be a deep-rooted suspicion that the infamous weapons of mass destruction (WMDs), the supposed justification for the invasion, never existed.

The recent Iraq inquiry, chaired by Sir John Chilcot, provided no firm answers.

Award-winning British filmmaker Paul Greengrass and actor Matt Damon, the driving forces behind The Bourne Supremacy and The Bourne Ultimatum, put forward one scenario in this riveting thriller.

Based on the book Imperial Life In The Emerald City: Inside Iraq's Green Zone by journalist Rajiv Chandrasekaran, Green Zone is a breathless two hours of adrenaline-pumping action and political manoeuvring that places as much emphasis on emotionally charged dialogue as the set pieces.

The film opens with a deafening bang on March 19, 2003, in Baghdad as Saddam Hussein's trusted general, Al Rawi (Naor), flees his headquarters in the midst of an Allied blitzkrieg.

Four weeks later, US Army warrant officer Roy Miller (Damon) and his team career through the war torn capital on the hunt for WMDs. Yet again, they draw a blank and Miller voices his frustrations, suspecting bogus intelligence.

A tip-off from a local, Freddy (Abdalla), leads Miller and his crew to a meeting of Saddam's high-ranking advisers including Al Rawi. The general escapes but another man is apprehended and Miller uses Freddy as a translator to interrogate the suspect about a notebook in his possession.

"He says the book has names and locations of El Rawi's safe houses," reveals Freddy.

Returning to base, Miller bypasses scheming Pentagon official Clark Poundstone (Kinnear) and his minion Major Briggs (Isaacs), and delivers the book to local CIA chief Gordon Brown (Gleeson), who asks for discretion.

"I thought we were all on the same side," replies Miller. "Don't be naive," mocks Brown.

Green Zone is distinguished by tour-de-force direction, galloping through the streets of Baghdad with handheld cameras so we remain uncomfortably close to Miller as he risks his life for a country he was entrusted to tear apart.

Store-bought tomatoes? Easier to grow your own

Ask any budding gardener which crops they would try to grow first and I guarantee that tomatoes would be among the top answers.

They not only look and taste infinitely better than shop-bought ones, but there are so many varieties from which to choose that even if you only have a hanging basket you can plant a cascading type which will give you dozens of sweet, cherry tomatoes.

However, many beginners can end up disappointed, as their tomatoes either suffer blossom end rot, or are decimated by blight, where the stem and the fruits end up with brown blotches and become inedible, particularly in wet, windy summers.

Kevin Smith, commissioning editor of Gardeners' World magazine, which is launching a Grow Your Own Week campaign from March 29, says: "Few crops are more rewarding than tomatoes, and they're easy to grow in any space, even a tiny urban balcony."

"Don't be put off by the recent cold weather, even if it persists for a few more weeks, as you can delay sowing tomato seeds until April, or even buy pot-grown plants as late

by Hannah Stephenson

as May. Producing a delicious tomato crop is easy."

He offers the following tips to help you produce healthy, delicious tomatoes:

■ Water the soil or compost daily to ensure it never dries out. Pay special attention to plants grown in containers, as irregular watering causes nutritional imbalance, leading to low calcium take-up, which causes blossom end rot.

■ Keep your plants well fed. For tomatoes grown in pots and bags, watering by itself won't be enough to ensure healthy growth. Feed tomatoes weekly with a high-potash fertiliser, increasing the frequency as the plants grow larger or if leaves show signs of discolouring.

■ Train tomatoes to canes or supports. Different types will require different training. For example, bush tomatoes will need little, if any, training. However, most other tomatoes are trained as single stems, or cordons, and the main shoot needs to be tied upright to a cane or support.

Pinch out tips. Outdoor cordon tomatoes will usually form three or four trusses of fruits during the season. Pinch off the tip of the main shoot a leaf or two above the fourth flower truss. You can leave greenhouse plants to grow on.

■ Combat blight disease. Warm, humid weather provides the perfect conditions for blight disease which attacks tomatoes and potatoes. This fungus disease spreads rapidly via airborne spores when conditions are right. Keep an eye on the weather and, if these conditions occur, use a preventive fungicide spray, such as Sitahen 945, straight away to stop the blight spores infecting your plants.

The greenhouse is the obvious place to grow tomatoes as you can give them a longer season and are likely to get bigger crops than if you grow them outdoors.

Indoor tomatoes can be sown in March in a heated propagator set to a minimum of 15C, but preferably a little higher.

Outdoor tomatoes should be started off indoors eight or nine weeks before it's safe to plant outdoors in your area. In colder areas, wait until April.

Two years ago, during the wet summer (which is the sort of weather tomatoes hate) the magazine held a trial of container-grown tomatoes to discover which performed best. The overall top choice was 'Apero F1', a rich, red cherry tomato with a slightly elongated shape, followed by 'Tomatoberry F1', which produced an abundance of delicious, strawberry-shaped fruits on trailing trusses.

BEST OF THE BUNCH
Mahonia

These evergreen shrubs are valued for their honey-scented flowers in late winter and early spring, as well as their spiky foliage which comes in different shades. Most types have either rounded clusters or starburst spikes of yellow flowers which last for many weeks in the winter, followed by purple or black berries.

Mahonias like fertile soil with added organic matter and do best in full or partial shade, where the soil is moist. Prune after flowering, lightly cutting back shoots which spoil the shape. If you're after contrasting foliage, go for the low-growing M. aquifolium 'Apollo', whose leaves turn a rich purple hue in autumn.

77% proof

Cars' CO2 output is falling fast

THE CO2 output of cars is dropping dramatically, and everybody is doing their bit to ensure this cut in harmful gases continues.

The 330,000 British motorists who have so far bought new cars under the Government's scrappage scheme, thus condemning older, more polluting cars to the wrecker's yard, have helped boost the fall in carbon dioxide emissions.

However, the whole motor industry has knuckled down to deliver a far more planet-friendly approach to making, and running, cars.

And the race is on to hit the target of an average 130g/km emissions by 2015, laid down by Europe's rulers.

Already, almost a third of all new cars sold in the UK in 2009 – 27.6% – emitted less than that figure, but Italian car giant Fiat can go one better than that.

Just three months into 2010, Fiat has logged a CO2 average of just 127.8g/km, compared with its 133.7g/km in 2009, putting it ahead of of Toyota (130.1g/km), Peugeot (133.6g/km), Renault (137.5g/km), Citroen (137.9g/km), and Ford (140.0g/km).

Toyota has joined the Clean Energy Partnership (CEP), adding impetus to CEP's aim of developing a network of hydrogen filling stations throughout Germany.

The Japanese car maker will hand over five hydrogen fuel cell vehicles next year to help support the project, as it continues to develop both hybrid and all-electric vehicles, such as the FT-EVII concept revealed at the Geneva Motor Show this year.

Tadashi Arashima, president of Toyota Motor Europe, says: "We firmly believe that fuel cell hybrid vehicles will play a major role in reducing emissions and achieving sustainable mobility."

"Toyota aims to commercially produce fuel cell vehicles around 2015. To achieve this, a hydrogen charging infrastructure is necessary, so close ties between car manufacturers and infrastructure companies are vital."

Delta's E-4 Coupe: Northamptonshire firm's design will hit 60mph in less than five seconds and go 200 miles between charges.

Meanwhile, Volkswagen's TSI engines have been awarded an environmental commendation by TÜV Nord, a leading global research and assessment company, after finding the TSI engines had significantly improved environmental characteristics, thanks to significantly lower fuel consumption and CO2 emissions.

However, a British firm wants to go one better, and produce the most environmentally friendly car on the planet.

Delta Motorsport, based at the Silverstone Circuit Technology Park in Northamptonshire, is chasing a 10 million US dollar (£6.67 million) prize put up by American car insurer Progressive Insurance, and is so far the only UK contender in the competition to find the world's most environmentally friendly car.

Delta has come up with an electric car, the E-4 Coupe, which aims to meet, and beat, the tough contest criteria of being able to go 200 miles between charges, and be production-ready.

Already, the E-4 can hit 60mph in under five seconds, and it has a top speed well in excess of 100mph. Let's hope the Delta achieves success, as it will go a long way towards cementing the future of all-electric motor cars.

Even car hire giant Europcar is contributing to the drive for cleaner air. It has ordered 500 electric vehicles from Renault, which will be available to rent next year in major European cities.

The Renault models include the Fluence four-door family saloon, the Twizy city car, and the Kangoo van for business clients.

Finally, even motorsport is now presenting a sustainable face to the world – there's an alternative energy racing day at the Santa Pod raceway in Northamptonshire on April 23, with cleaner, greener vehicles hitting the famous drag strip.

77%! Maserati GranTurismo is supercar residuals icon

ONE supercar that is holding its value well is the £78,000, 4.2-litre Maserati GranTurismo, according to the used car experts at Glass's Guide. Only around 200 of them sell in the UK each year, and Glass's Guide says it is outstripping other supercar residual values by retaining an impressive 77 per cent of its original cost after one year and 13,000 miles.

And they're in such demand that dealers are prepared to pay over the odds for a used GranTurismo on the rare occasions they come across one, adds Glass's.

Second in the residual values list is the Porsche 911 C2S Tiptronic, which holds 76 per cent of its value after one year and 13,000 miles.

Meanwhile, small family hatchbacks – 1.6-litre petrol models have been a standard example – show big price differences from one brand to another, says Used Car Expert magazine.

Editor Matt Tumbridge looked at a selection of the best-selling small family hatchbacks and compared the price of three-year-old examples against their new price.

"Many new car buyers will have lost up to 50 per cent of their money after 36 months, and with the average mileage for these motors at under 30,000 in most cases, used car buyers have a great opportunity to buy reliable vehicles, with at least 50,000 to 70,000 miles of reliable motoring left in them, at half price," says Tumbridge.

The effects of scrappage 'will be long-lasting'

A NEW era is about to dawn on Britain's used car market – all thanks to the Government's scrappage initiative.

The scrappage scheme is now in its final days – it finishes at the end of March – but web vehicle retailer Carsite.co.uk says its effects will be long-lasting.

Come April, cost-conscious motorists looking for a quality vehicle within the £4,000 to £6,000 bracket will find buying a used car a more accessible route, says the website's sales director Alistair Jeff.

"That £4,000 to £6,000 price range will, with scrappage, enable drivers to buy a new car until the end of March. Next month, demand in this bracket for second-hand models will surge as new cars become less value for money," explains Jeff.

In a reflection of the growing demand for quality used cars, trade values for popular models costing from £4,000 to £6,000 increased by almost £200 between February and March, he adds.

Giving examples, Jeff says, the value of a 2007 Vauxhall Corsa increased by £180, a 2007 Kia Picanto rose by £130, and a 2007 Hyundai Getz appreciated £100.

"Following the removal of scrappage allowances, the cheapest price of a new car will be around £6,500. Thus, Carsite expects a sudden increase in demand for better-equipped, and better-value, second-hand models," comments Jeff.

"The scrappage scheme's effects will be long-lasting. The market is still healthy, but many buyers are working with restricted finances. Demand for good value and nearly-new vehicles will increase, but supply is still restricted, and so prices will rise. This means we're looking at a new era for the second-hand market," Jeff explains.

Meanwhile, small family hatchbacks – 1.6-litre petrol models have been as a standard example – show big price differences from one brand to another, says Used Car Expert magazine.

Editor Matt Tumbridge looked at a selection of the best-selling small family hatchbacks and compared the price of three-year-old examples against their new price.

"Many new car buyers will have lost up to 50 per cent of their money after 36 months, and with the average mileage for these motors at under 30,000 in most cases, used car buyers have a great opportunity to buy reliable vehicles, with at least 50,000 to 70,000 miles of reliable motoring left in them, at half price," says Tumbridge.

SALES OPPORTUNITY

We are looking for an exceptional person to head up our small sales team based in Haverhill selling furniture to the top end of the interior design market and as a substantial proportion of the work comes from one off pieces, a strong interest in furniture and a keenness to learn more is essential. Being at home with technical drawers and or CAD would be an asset. Much of the work comes from repeat business so a service industry background would be ideal or one specialized in relationship built selling. Virtually all is office based so a strong telephone manner is vital. We are ideally looking for someone with a mixed background with some management experience; PR and marketing knowledge would be useful but not essential. Salary neg depending on experience but in region of 20k plus target bonus with a huge opportunity to build an exciting next step to your career.

EXPERIENCED SPRAYER

Wet sprayer (please do not apply if only used powder coating) with at least 2 years spraying experience ideally on furniture for busy spray shop. Must have top quality spraying skills to meet high end of the market needs. Salary based on experience.

DRIVER/SANDER

Varied role for furniture company. Duties would include being relief driver nationwide, helping with deliveries and installations and on other days working in the sanding area preparing furniture for spraying. A clean driving licence, good references and a good personality to be one of the public faces of the company are the only requirements. Basic salary plus overtime on driving days.

Rovers remain on course for treble

ROVERS' assault on three trophies gained more momentum with a comfortable win in the President's Cup.

Playing against the breeze on a difficult artificial surface, Rovers started slowly.

However, Abbey posed almost no threat as Haverhill's ever-reliable back four and goalkeeper snuffed out everything the home side could offer.

EASTERN JUNIOR ALLIANCE, PRESIDENT'S CUP

As the half wore on, Rovers began to create some chances as Gathercole, with a header, and Clark, with a run and shot, both went close.

The second half was much more one-sided as Rovers began to get a grip on proceedings, especially after Adam Palmer smashed a 35-yard free kick over the Waltham Abbey goalkeeper's head to make it 1-0.

Rovers went 2-0 up not long after when another free kick, this time from Taylor, was headed in by Robson.

Taylor then hit the bar as Rovers threatened to run riot.

To their credit, Abbey did not give up and twice went close before getting and converting a penalty with a couple of minutes to go.

Morley hits a derby leveller

West Wrattling 2
Thurlow 2

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 9A

WRATTING dominated the opening exchanges and were soon ahead through Dominic Brophy's goal.

Thurlow defended well with Toby Egan making some fine saves as crosses flashed in from the left and right. Finley Plant and Joseph Morley then turned up the heat and Thurlow equalised through Finlay Dray just as the third period came to a close.

Lewis Lindsay scored to put the home side a head once more, but Morley then equalised.

At the other end, a James Coleman shot struck the bar and the ball bounced back into play in a dramatic finale to the local derby.

West Wrattling: C Smith, C Goodwin, B Pratley, J Moran, J England, L Lindsay, J Coleman, D Brophy.
Thurlow: T Egan, T Yagir, F Dray, F Plant, J Morley, F Dray, M Wiffen, J Edwards, W Wilson.

Sawston United 0
West Wrattling 12

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 9E

WRATTING ran riot when they visited Sawston. Dominic Brophy grabbed four very well-taken goals, James Coleman nabbed a hat-trick and Lewis Lindsay scored twice.

There was a goal apiece for Benjamin Pratley and Jack England and an own goal completed the scoring. Zach Fellows, Christian Smith, Cam Goodwin and Josef Moran all played their part in a fine victory.

CAMBRIDGE & DIST COLTS LGE, DIV 14A

DESPITE getting off to an explosive start with a goal in the first minute, the Reds had keeper and man of the match Jack Vernon to thank for a fine display to keep them to in the game at half time.

On a small pitch, Liam Curran's clever ball found in-form James Percy, who applied the finish to give Wrattling their early lead. Cambourne eased back into the game and Vernon pulled off his first fine save.

It was not long before the home team got back on level terms and then went ahead. Wrattling had chances, but Vernon had to pull off a point-blank save to keep out Cambourne.

Just before the break, the home side extended their lead with a goal from a corner to go in leading 3-1 at the interval.

Wrattling started the second half on top with Tom Pinker being brought down in the area. Harry Willett saw his penalty strike the post, but Scott Hayes reacted quickest and slammed in the rebound.

The tempo of the game increased dramatically and became quite feisty. Curran and Hayes had shots just wide before Matt Burley's 30-yard pass found Pinker, who shrugged off his marker, stormed into the area and buried the equaliser.

A Wrattling winner looked likely, but Percy and Curran both had efforts scrambled off the line. Play switched to the other end and produced another great Vernon stop. When he was beaten, Burley pulled off a last-ditch clearance. In the closing stages, Curran and Percy went close for Wrattling.

Withersfield 4
Littleport Town 1

CAMBRIDGE & DIST COLTS LGE, DIV 12D

LITTLEPORT lived up to their good reputation by claiming the first goal, but Withersfield responded swiftly as Jack Ferguson sent Jamie Lingard on his way to calmly slotted home the leveller. The same player then thundered the ball against the post, and, minutes later captain Jason Moore hit the other post. But man of the match Ty Alleyne did score when George Mustoe slipped the ball into his path, enabling him to beat the keeper. In the second half, Alleyne was foiled by a fine double save by the Littleport keeper after a good move involving Cameron Kidd and Lewis Knightley.

Withersfield continued to push for a third as Paul Notley fed the ball down the line for Lingard to cross into the box for Mitchell Forshaw to control well before netting. Withersfield's last goal was a classic 'route one' effort when keeper Jack Davis threw the ball out to Moore, who spun and kicked the ball over the Littleport defence, allowing Lingard to use his pace to good effect before hammering home.

in the 100m freestyle and third in the 200m freestyle and 200m backstroke.

Her sister, Hannah, also produced a fine personal best to take silver in the 15 years 100m breaststroke.

Further medal-winning performances came from the more senior boys. Chris Titterington claimed a silver and two bronzes, James Briars two silvers, and Andrew Kimpton and Sean Collier each a bronze medal in their events.

In the 14/15 year girls' age group, Nikisha Grant and Alex Taylor also gained bronze medals.

Many more swimmers produced personal-best performances to finish in the top eight in their events, including Annabelle Farrell, Nella Walters, Casey Maggs, Ellie Wright, Tamsin Ransome, Jen Titterington, Myles Turner, Gregory and Thomas Buckle, Alex Proffitt, Robert Cooper, Patrick Briars, Jordan Christie and Tom Sarah. Alan Bircher, the West Suffolk coach, said: "The club have seen a big shift in performance since last year's county championships and now realistically are chasing the likes of St Felix and Lowestoft."

"Everyone over the past two weekends has performed out of their skins. From the nine-year-olds to the 18s we have pulled together and put on a show."

"I was really pleased for Victoria Sparrow, as she has worked hard for her national time, it just shows the hard work pays off."

"We now have four national qualifiers and I think we can have at least another three. We have some good opportunities coming up at long-course meets."

"We also have Bethan Bottomley swimming in the national senior championships with a chance of European junior qualification."

Storming back nine brings victory for Haworth

THE midweek medal at Haverhill Golf Club saw all three division winners sharing a nett 67.

However, Stuart Haworth was the overall victor on countback after his great score of a gross three over the back nine.

Junior Harvey Bavester had the lowest gross score of the day with 77-10-67.

Results: Division One - Harvey Bavester 77-10-67, Michael Goldsmith 85-11-74, Mark Stanton 86-12-74. Division Two: Stuart Haworth 87-20-67, Howard Ward 84-17-67, Stewart Johnstone 89-18-71. Division Three: Patrick Bowes 90-23-67, David Elliott 99-23-76, Ray Kings 100-22-78.

■ All the Haverhill medal winners throughout the 2009/10 season played in the Rosebowl Final.

Francis Gooch scooped the prize with a runaway victory with a score of 89-24-65. Mark Firman (83-13-70) was second on countback from Eric Kiddie (79-9-70).

■ A County Junior Team Handicap Cup, first-round match saw Haverhill score a resounding 6-0 win over Seckford at Coupsals Road. The victorious team was Chris Vince, Harvey Bavester, Ed Baker, Mike Perrett, Lewis Whiting and Richard Boyles.

■ Haverhill Seniors played two matches last week. They lost 5-3 at Newton Green and halved their home match against Colne Valley 5-5.

It's Bridge too far for sad Rovers

Provider: Stuart Wardley, who set up both Haverhill goals for Shaun Banham.

HAVERHILL gave their worst display of the season as they allowed their second-from-bottom hosts to claim only their third league win of the season on Saturday.

Woodbridge went ahead after 17 minutes with a 25-yard dipping drive over Rovers keeper Matt Morrison.

The visitors hit back to go into the break leading 2-1. First Stuart Wardley flicked the ball on for Shaun Banham to slide the ball home after 28 minutes.

Wardley then headed the ball on for Banham to net via the underside of the bar in the 42nd minute.

Woodbridge hit back to level four minutes into the second half.

They went ahead once more in the 61st minute when the Haverhill defence failed to clear and a low cross was slotted past Morrison and converted from close range.

Haverhill's chances of a recovery were finally dashed with Woodbridge's fourth goal three minutes later.

Manager Peter Betts must now revive his Rovers team for a tough test on Saturday when FA Vase semi-finalists Wroxham will be the visitors to Hamlet Croft, kick-off 3pm.

The Yachtsmen travel to Sussex County League side Whitehawk in the first leg of the Vase semi-final the following weekend. Due to their lengthy involvement in that competition, the Norfolk side currently occupy a mid-table position in the league, but are well behind with their fixtures.

Supersub: Ryan Raffell, who came off the bench to claim Haverhill's winning try.

Raffell to the rescue

Lakenham Hewett 8 Haverhill 10

EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE, DIVISION TWO

RYAN Raffell stepped off the bench to prove the hero for Haverhill as they battled to a 10-8 win over strugglers Lakenham Hewett at Norwich on Saturday. The skipper has been hampered by injuries and it was hoped that he would be able to sit out the match against the division's bottom club, but the call came in the 50th minute.

Haverhill had taken the lead through a Tom Chambers penalty, but Lakenham hit back and pounced for their own try.

And, despite being a man down after a sin-binning, they increased their lead to 8-3 after the break. The Norfolk side were back down to 14 men when Haverhill drove for the line, only to be held up.

But, on the second scrum, Raffell pirouetted off the back to roll the defender and touch down.

And he stepped up to land the conversion and seal the win.

Ollie's a star turn in big medal haul

WEST Suffolk SC finished the second weekend of racing at the county championships with an additional eight gold, 17 silver and 15 bronze medals to add to their impressive tally from the previous weekend.

The are now in fourth place overall behind big-hitters Ipswich, St Felix and Lowestoft.

The star performer of the weekend was Ollie Trent, who won three golds (50m back, 200m breaststroke and 200m individual medley), two silvers (50m freestyle and 100m individual medley) and achieved huge personal bests in every swim.

Trent, who is nine, is showing great potential and raising the level of swimmers within the club.

His brother Ashley also helped West Suffolk's medal haul with two seconds and a third.

Victoria Sparrow yet again produced one of the best swims of the weekend with 2min 19.79sec in the 200m backstroke, taking her from a non national qualifier to being ranked 13th in Great Britain.

Her younger sister, Hannah, was again in fine form, winning gold in the 50m butterfly, closely followed by team-mate Eleanor Shields in second place, with both girls knocking around seven seconds off their previous best times.

Hannah also went on to gain bronze in both the 100m freestyle and 200m backstroke.

Ever improving Bethan Bottomley, 14, who will be competing at the senior national championships in two weeks, clocked an impressive 58.51 100m freestyle, well inside the time she set when winning the regional title.

She qualified for two further national events in the 200m backstroke and 200 freestyle, finishing the weekend with a tally of three gold and three silver medals.

Danny Proffitt, 15, also qualified for two further national events – the 200m fly and an impressive 400m individual medley, cutting 13 seconds off his previous best time (4:42.74).

Proffitt, who has now qualified for five national events, is still in the hunt for a further three national titles.

Competing in the 15/16 years age group, he won one gold and three silver medals over the weekend.

Molly Reeder, 12, repeated her medal-winning form of the previous weekend, finishing second
